

Spotlight: Linking primary and acute care data to inform and transform health service delivery

TOPIC	PRESENTER	TIME
Symposium opening	Professor Elizabeth Whiting, Program Lead Reform Office, Queensland Health	1:00pm
The NSW Lumos program and how linked primary and acute care data is used to inform delivery of coordinated care	Patricia Correll, A/Director System Monitoring and Insights, and Simon Bishop, A/Senior Manager Lumos, NSW Health	1:10pm
Building linkage into evaluation of care models – Care Collective	Peter Boffey, Team Leader Data, Alison Berigan, Program Manager Complex Care Models, and Olivia Brunton, Data Analyst, Brisbane North PHN	1:30pm
The PHASES Projects: Preventing Heart Attacks and Stroke Events through Surveillance	Professor Kim Greaves, Cardiologist and Epidemiologist, Sunshine Coast Hospital and Health Service	1:50pm
The Institute for Urban Indigenous Health (IUIH), Data Linkage partnership: the DIFFERENCE project	Dr Carmel Nelson, Chief Health Officer and Executive Director, Quality and Innovation, IUIH, and Professor Jason Ferris, Director of Research and Statistical Support Services (RASSS), University of Queensland	2:10pm
Data linkage initiatives under development to support Public Health Intelligence in Queensland	Professor Ross Andrews, Executive Director Public Health Intelligence Branch, Queensland Health	2:30pm
Queensland’s design phase for the National Primary and Acute Care Data Linkage Project.	Dr Trisha Johnston, Director, Statistical Services Branch, Queensland Health	2:50pm
Methods to maximise privacy in linkage of data: Privacy Preserving Record Linkage (PPRL), the Separation Principle and using linkage spines and maps	Sankha Bandara Haputantirige, Principal Project Officer, and Raymond Daniel, Manager Data Linkage, Statistical Services Branch, Queensland Health	3:00pm
Engaging key stakeholders in codesign of data governance	Ann Harrington, Manager Data Access, Governance and Partnerships, and Halima Akanbi, Primary Care Project Officer, Statistical Services Branch, Queensland Health	3:15pm
Symposium close		3:30pm